LONDON APPLAUDS JOURNAL ENTERPRISE.

Congratulatory Messages Sent to Captain Dreyfus Are Pronounced in England as Characteristic of the Paper of the American People.

Count Castellane, Anna Gould's Husband, Insults the Prince of Monaco Because He Invited the Famous Prisoner to His Chateau.

LONDON, July 4.—The long array of congratulations from prominent Americans sent to Captain Dreyfus by the Journal has attracted as much attention here as in Paris. The newspapers describe it as a characteristic bit of Journal enterprise. The Daily News says that "it was an inevitable stroke of enterprise on the part of the New York Journal. That energetic paper has handed to Mme. Dreyfus a sheaf of letters from prominent persons in England and America for presentation to her husband."

The Paris correspondent of the Times cables that Captain Dreyfus was deeply touched by the letters when they were given to him by Mme. Dreyfus.

CASTELLANE INSULTS PRINCE OF MONACO.

Anna Gould's Husband Resents the Invitation to Captain and Mme. Dreyfus to Come to Monte Carlo.

Paris, July 4.—Comte Boni de Castellane, who married Miss Anna Gould, has addressed a communication to the Prince of Monaco, sharply criticising the Prince for his recent letter to Mme. Dreyfus, inviting her and her husband to sojourn at his chateau after the prisoner's acquittal, of which the Prince expressed himself as confident.

The Comte, who charges the Prince with interfering in an affair in which "you are in no way concerned," says:

"If, as a foreign sovereign, you thought you could influence French officers in the grave verdict they are about to pronounce, I beg you to note that we do not stand on an equal footing, as none of us would condescend to call to account a prince who is under no obligation."

"You are perhaps a relative of Dreyfus by marriage, but in that case it is premature to triumph."

"If, on the other hand, it is as a protector of gambling houses that you intervene, permit me to tell you that Dreyfus himself would dispense with your services."

Absolute Calm in Rennes.

Rennes, France, July 4.—It is impossible to imagine a town calmer than Rennes. The inhabitants continue absolutely indifferent to the presence of Dreyfus.

Barely half a dozen persons witnessed the visits of counsel and Mme. Dreyfus to the prison to-day. The town, however, is full of detectives, who scrutinize all strangers, and a few gendarmes are patrolling before the residence of Mme. Dreyfus. Sunday approach and watch every one stopping before the gate leading to the courtyard of the mansion.

Mathieu Dreyfus paid his first visit to his brother at 3 o'clock this afternoon, the interview lasting half an hour. The brothers threw themselves into each other's arms. Mathieu said he found his brother aged and broken in health, but not the physical wreck he feared. In spite of his sufferings, Dreyfus's eyes are as bright and his mind as clear and his intelligence as keen as when he was occupied with his duties on the General Staff.

He was troubled with insomnia during the voyage, but has now recovered, and last night he had a refreshing sleep. The prisoner is still suffering from dysentery, but there is every reason to believe he will rapidly recuperate his forces.

Prisoner in Good Spirits.

Mathieu found his brother in good spirits and buoyed up by the necessity of mustering all his strength for the coming ordeal and by the hope that at last he will have justice done him.

He is extremely reserved as to his life on Devil's Island, which has left an indelible impression, and remains in his memory as a horrible nightmare. Dreyfus looks back to his existence of the past four years with relief, tinged with a feeling of the horror of a sane man who has escaped from a madhouse.

He declares that his brain is almost reeling in the face of the documents and explanations MM. Demange and Labori are bringing out regarding the extraordinary machinations of his enemies and the persevering devotion of his friends. Dreyfus is astounded and full of heartfelt gratitude at their self-sacrifice. This feeling is particularly strong as regards Colonel Picquart, whom he hardly remembers, and the story of whose persecution has profoundly moved him.

Captain Dreyfus was unable to talk freely with his brother owing to the presence of the officer who is under instructions to be present at all interviews between the prisoner and members of his family.

This arrangement has been a terrible trial for Mme. Dreyfus, as she has been obliged to restrain herself so far as possible and has been unable to converse as to intimate matters, because every word has been overheard and every gesture watched by the officer.

Only Maitre Demange and Labori are allowed to see Captain Dreyfus privately.

Labors Joyful and Confident.

Maitre Labori paid another visit to Captain Dreyfus at 10 o'clock this morning, remaining with him until noon.

Counsel was almost joyful in appearance on leaving the military prison, and beyond doubt his interviews with Dreyfus have given him the most favorable impression respecting the outcome of the court-martial. Dreyfus spent yesterday evening and this morning in studying the documents relating to the Esterhazy and Zola trials.

Maitre Labori, during this morning's conference, explained to him the obscure points. Dreyfus was naturally astonished at many incidents and at the attitude of various persons since his deportation. His counsel will return to see him to-morrow, the beginning of his next week, thus giving him ample time, in the meanwhile, to acquaint himself thoroughly with the contents of the various dossiers.

Entered the world's arena and hope to control the finances of other and weaker nations.

The Republic of Mexico is about to refund its entire foreign debt at New York. This will be the first loan for another country ever placed in the United States, and will mark a new epoch in this country's history as a world-power.

Not many years ago the United States looked to British investors for the money when railroads were to be built, or great enterprises financed. Much of the American national debt was owned abroad, particularly in England.

Of late years the British have been sending back American securities in payment for the balance of trade against them. At this moment the United States is a creditor nation in Europe, and American money is lent on Continental exchanges and bourses, which, if withdrawn, would send gold this way.

The new step in finance about to be taken changes, or rather strengthens, the political attitude of the United States. The ownership of a large share of the Mexican public debt in this country will draw the political tie between Washington and the city of Mexico all the closer.

Little ownership of Turkish or Egyptian bonds more than once has disturbed the chancelleries of the Continent, and the deal which J. Pierpont Morgan and his European banking connections have completed may affect powerfully the American foreign policy at some future day.

The entire Mexican foreign debt, amounting to $108,555,100, is now held principally in England, Germany and Holland. All but $15,500,000, which is a Government 5 per cent loan to subsidize the Tehuantepec Railway, draws 6 per cent interest.

The Mexican Minister of Finance, Senior Y. Limantour, has contracted with J. P. Morgan & Co. of New York; J. S. Morgan & Co. of London; the Dresdner Bank, the Deutsche Bank and S. Bleichroder, Berlin representatives of the Rothschilds, for the refunding of this debt at 5 per cent.

The saving to Mexico will be $1,000,000 a year.

Part of the new bonds will be placed on sale in this city within two weeks. The 5 per cent will be exchanged in London and Berlin for the securities held there.

The syndicate "underwrites" the loan, paying cash for the old bonds where the new ones are not desired by present holders.

The bonds will be in terms of pounds sterling or American dollars, being payable at 4.50 exchange in United States gold dollars. They are secured by the customs duties of Mexico, which amounted to $25,000,000 last year.

The trade balance against Mexico last year was $128,075,000 of exports and $133,000,000 of imports, a high state of prosperity.
